

“Best thing about volunteering on our support line? Going home feeling that someone, somewhere is feeling better for calling NAPAC”

Volunteer for NAPAC in Stockport

- You could make a real difference to someone's life.
- One in seven callers to our national support line are telling someone for the first time about the abuse they suffered.
- Each and every call is different and you need to be prepared to listen without judging.
- You need empathy, resilience and to commit to a regular four-hour shift.
- You'll receive extensive training, so you're ready to take calls with our support line team in Stockport.
- We look after our volunteers through our model of live supervision and support. This is part of what makes volunteering at NAPAC special – you'll be part of a warm, encouraging and empathetic team.
